SIMULATING CURRENCY

Proceedings Against Mississippi State Officials.

CARLISLE ORDERS THEIR ARREST.

Governor Stone Appears Not at All Disturbed and Is Sanguine of the Successful Termination of the Issue, Which Will Probably Be Made a Test Case.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 11.—Warrants were sworn out for the arrest of the following state officers of Mississippi: J. M. Stone, governor; W. W. Stone, auditor, and J. J. Evans, state treasurer.

William J. Burns, a special agent of the secret service bureau of Washington, who has been here for the past two months working on the special warrant case, made affidavits before Commissioner L. B. Moseley, charging them with violating section 5,439 of the revised statutes of the United States in issuing the $200,000 of Mississippi special warrants, charged to be in the similitude of United States currency. The warrant was placed in the hands of United States Marshal J. McNealy. Auditor Stone appeared before the commissioner and entered into personal recognizance of $2,000 for his appearance at the November term of the federal court waiving examination.

The affidavit contains three charges covering each of the three denominations of warrants with a photograph print of both front and back of the same. These charges allege that on June 15, 1894, the aforesaid mentioned officials did unlawfully and feloniously, at Jackson, Miss., and not by direction of any proper officer of the United States, print, photograph, make and cause to be printed, photographed and made certain photograph, print and impression of the likeness of national bank currency of said United States. Then follows the denomination of the warrants with photographic print of its face and back.

The state officers have been expecting these proceedings for several days and were not, therefore, the least surprised when served. They appear not all disturbed and are sanguine of the successful termination of the issue. The warrants were issued in accordance with an act passed by the last legislature making it the official duty of these officers to execute the same. The act provides for $200,000 in these warrants in denominations of fives, tens and twenties. These are redeemable Jan. 1, 1898, and bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, and are receivable at any time for all dues by the state prior to the date of such interest. The issuance of $2 is ordered necessary by a board of the state treasury, and the legislature has made no provision for the payment of interest or bonds in the event.

The first arrest was made by the United States [illegible] days ago upon [illegible] issued upon the [illegible] warrants were not. Bail [illegible] was refused. He will be [illegible] Monday and [illegible] to-day on [illegible] warrants for the arrest of the [illegible].

Governor Stone was served and said the state officials [illegible] any United States [illegible], and that he could not [illegible] United States [illegible] would be [illegible] before [illegible] $100,000 at least [illegible] would have the utmost confidence. He, therefore, care to publicly discuss the matter in question.

United States [illegible] G. E. George and A. J. M. Lytton and ex-Chief Justice J. A. P. Campbell have been retained by the state officials to defend them.

The proceedings against the Mississippi state officials were taken at the direction of Secretary Carlisle, and as the result of a consultation between him and the officials of the department of justice it was felt that if no notice was taken of the issue and distribution of these warrants by the state of Mississippi other states would in all probability follow suit, and the near resemblance of the issues to government securities would result in harm. The penalty is a fine of not more than $5,000 or imprisonment at hard labor not more than fifteen years, or both. The opinion here is that the present will be a test case.

Rumored Resumption of Cloth Mills.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 11.—Secretary Connelly, of the Card and Picker Room association, says that he has learned on high authority that the Potomska mills will be started up next Monday on the old schedule, and if this is done the other cloth mills will follow suit by virtue of an agreement recently reached that if one cloth mill started up they should all do so.

That Tired Feeling

Is a dangerous condition directly due to depleted or impure blood. It should not be allowed to continue, as in its debility the system is especially liable to serious attacks of ofill ness. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the remedy for such a condition, and also for that weakness which prevails at the change of season, climate or life.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, carefully prepared from the best ingredients. 25c

The Doctors Endorse It.

At a regular meeting of the Genesee County (N. Y.) Medical Society, the physicians of the county passed a vote of thanks for samples of Gilmore's Aromatic Wine, which had been presented to the society, and said that they recognized the remedy as being adapted to a large cl ss of summer diseases. Physicians everywhere recommend this excellent medicine, especially to their la ly patients. Sold by all druggists for $1.00 per bottle.

THE MAINE ELECTION.

Governor Cleaves Re-elected by an Estimated Majority of 37,000.

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 11.—The victorious trumpeting of the Republican elephant is sounding throughout all Maine and its giant footprints are plain in the land. Yesterday was a good day for Republicans and a correspondingly bad one for the Democrats, but the result was not altogether unforseen. To rain and general apathy is due the light vote, and, while the Democrats admit defeat, they do not show a symptom of discouragement.

The Prohibitionists and Populists are not largely in evidence, so far as returns indicate. A heavy rain put a quietus upon the telegraph and telephone wires, but returns have been received by the Associated Press from over one hundred cities and towns, and these indicate that the state has re-elected Governor Cleaves (Rep.), over Charles F. Johnson (Dem.), by a majority which will exceed 37,000, the largest in the history of the party.

The Republicans have carried every county in the state and it is estimated that the legislature will have a working Republican majority of 125 which insures the re-election of Senator William P. Frye. Hon. Thomas B. Reed has been re-elected to congress by a plurality estimated at 10,000. Hon. Nelson Dingley, Hon. Seth L. Milliken and C. A. Boutelle are also re-elected to congress by majorities ranging from six to nine thousand. The total vote will probably exceed 110,000.

The Dead Count.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—The coffin containing the remains of the Comte de Paris was yesterday sealed in the presence of the members of the count's family. The scene, as the face of the dead was forever shut from human eyes, was a most touching one. The ladies present showed the keenest grief as those in charge of the funeral sealed the coffin. Today the coffin was placed in the marble saloon of Stowe House, and the public was again admitted to the house to view the casket. Cardinal Vaughan will officiate at the funeral services which takes place to morrow.

Policeman Fatally Shot.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11.—Policeman James Chambers was shot last night by Charles G. McCloskey, whom he was attempting to arrest, and is dying at the Episcopal hospital. Neighbors of McCloskey had complained of his disorderly conduct, and Chambers, with another policeman, was sent to his house, 2531 East Dauphin street, to arrest him. McCloskey ran up stairs and, standing at the top, fired five shots from his pistol. One of the bullets lodged in Chambers' breast. McCloskey is in jail.

Sensational Raid on a Gambling House.

OWENSBORO, Ky., Sept. 11.—A sensation was created here by an early morning raid made on a gambling game in progress in the rear of the Planters' House. Three officers raided the room and found the Hon. Lige Moore, of Henderson, Republican candidate for congress; Messrs. John Shackelford, Ernest Burch, A. Sparks, Theo Washburn and John Walters, all well-known men. Messrs. Sebre and Burch were [illegible] by the city court and were [illegible] but the other cases were continued [illegible] Friday.

Death of the Queen of Gypsies.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 11.—Bridget Gorman, known as the "Queen of Gypsies," in America, died [illegible] her camp near this city, aged 85. She has ruled the [illegible] in America since [illegible] established King John Gorman, who was [illegible] and will be succeeded as her son, Lee Gorman, under a regency. [illegible] dispatches are being sent to [illegible] parts of the country to-day. [illegible] lived a roaming life of her days and was popular with her subjects.

Made Homeless by Fire.

MASSILLON, O., Sept. 11.—The little village of Dalton, located nine miles north of here, was almost totally destroyed by fire early in the morning. The fire originated in a stable, and while the direct cause of its origin is unknown it is presumed that it was prompted by tramps taking quarters there for the night. The entire loss is estimated at $20,000. Hundreds of women and children are rendered homeless, and are seen on every corner crying bitterly.

Put Poison in the Well.

PIEDMONT, Ala., Sept. 11.—Two members of the family of Edward S. Downs have died from drinking water out of a poisoned well while two more are not expected to recover. The dead are James and Sallie Downs, aged 25 and 14 years. How the well was poisoned is not known, but Andrew Finley, a discharged servant, has been arrested for the crime.

A Horrible Railroad Accident

Is a daily chronicle in our papers; also the death of some dear freind, who had died with Consumption, whereas, if he or she had taken Otto's Cure for Throat and Lung diseases in time, life would have been rendered happier and perhaps saved. Heed the warning! If you have a cough or any affection of the Throat and Lungs call at John J. Chambers, 21 West Main Street opp. Runyons Grocery, sole agent and get a trial bottle free. Large size 50c and 25c.

THE APILLY DISASTER.

It Turns Out to Be More Serious Than at First Supposed.

PARIS, Sept. 11.—The disaster to the Paris and Cologne express train at Apilly between Noyon and Chauny, Sunday, was more serious than at first supposed. The first estimates placed the number of persons killed at ten with twenty injured. It is now stated that from forty to sixty were killed or injured. Twelve dead bodies have already been taken from the wreck. The minister of public works, M. Barthou, and a number of railway officials have gone to the scene of the accident.

It is definitely stated that the accident was due to the slow shunting of a freight train at Apilly. The engineer of the express saw the cars on the line and reversed his engine. The shock of the collision was borne by the three front cars, which sustained the brunt of the damage. As soon as the accident became known a number of priests and physicians hurried to the railroad station and did everything possible to assist the dying and injured travelers. The priests administered the last sacrament to several who were dying.

The report that the station master at Apilly had committed suicide by jumping in front of the express train when he saw that a collision was inevitable turns out to be incorrect. The station master ran along the track while trying to signal the express train and the freight train, which was in its way, and he was caught between the two trains and killed. It seems to be certain that there were no Americans among the killed or injured.

Georgia and New Jersey Riflemen.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Sept. 11.—Arrangement have been made under which rifle teams representing the states of New Jersey and Georgia will shoot a match at Savannah on Feb 23 next. The teams will consist of six picked riflemen from each state. The makeup of the Georgia team has not yet been announced. The New Jersey team will be: General Bird W. Spencer, Colonel A. R. Kuser, Major D. A. Curry, Privates John Kuser and Theodore Beck, of Company A, mounted troop, of Newark, and Private William Hayes, of Company D, Second regiment.

Mine Superintendent Killed.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 11.—A terrific explosion of gas occurred in No 4 slope of the Pennsylvania Coal company, at Pittston, yesterday. There were 100 men at work in the colliery, but they all managed to escape to the surface with the exception of Superintendent Andrew Bryden, who was in the mine at the time on a tour of inspection. His body was badly burned. The supposition is that Bryden ignited a blower of gas, which caused the explosion. Bryden is one of the best known mine superintendents in the anthracite region.

Annual Convention of the O. U. A. M.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 11.—The National Council of the Order of United American Mechanics preceded its annual convention in this city yesterday with a parade of 500 mechanics representing councils from all over Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Connecticut. This morning the business session of the convention began. Many prominent members of the order are here, including National Secretary John Server, of Philadelphia; National Treasurer J. H. Shaw, of Camden; National Doorkeeper E. J. Jost of Washington.

Gasoline Stove Explosion.

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 11.—Matthew Hesheimer, of Gloucester, ignited his gasoline stove, preparatory to cooking breakfast, when the [illegible] exploded, blowing a side out of the house and hurling him through the opening into the garden. The house was set on fire but the flames were put out after considerable hard work. Hesheimer's face and hands were frightfully burned. He was removed to the hospital and may die.

Billiardist McLaughlin Leads.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Edward McLaughlin, of Philadelphia, champion billiard player of Pennsylvania, was the victor last night at Daly's billiard academy, this city, in the opening game of the six nights' bull and march between himself and Old Comanche Sexton. The match is for 1,500 points in blocks of 250 at the 14 inch balk line game. Score: McLaughlin 350 points, Old Comanche, 117.

Badly Injured in a Trolley Collision.

BAYONNE, N. J., Sept. 11.—A Bayonne trolley car ran into a wagon loaded with hay. The wagon was smashed, the horses thrown to one side and John Hart, the driver, badly injured. The pole of the wagon went through the trolley car and struck Motorman William Minton in the stomach. He will probably recover.

Tramp Killed in a Freight Wreck.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Sept. 11.—Seventeen cars of a Big Four freight train were derailed three miles east of here yesterday afternoon by a car breaking down. One unknown tramp was found dead under a pile of coal and another is missing. The injured are all tramps.

Dr. Hand's Diarrhœa Mixture.

"My baby is subject to severe attacks of diarrhœa. During the last sickness Dr. Hand's Diarrhœa Mixture was freely given and an immediate cure resulted. It would have required a dozen visits of a physician as on former occasions. I believe Dr. Hand's Remedies would have saved the life of the child I lost, had they been within my reach at the time of its sickness."—Mrs. F. H. Bennett, 752 New St., Camden, N. J. 25c. VETERANS OF THE WAR

Their Twenty-Eighth Annual Encampment at Pittsburg.

CITY ALIVE WITH ENTHUSIASM.

Never Before Has Pittsburg Enjoyed Such a Scene of Animation—Many Prominent Figures in Attendance—The Fight for the Office of Commander.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 11. — The twenty-eighth national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic is now in session. Taken all together, Pittsburg has never before enjoyed such a scene of animation. The sidewalks are inadequate to accommodate the crowds that throng them and the roadways are used along the main streets. Street cars and vehicles are almost blockaded.

One of the features of the first days of the encampment was the performance of Fred N. Innes' new composition of "War and Peace" at the exposition last night. This musical spectacle dedicated to the encampment, was given by the Thirteenth Regiment band, of New York, a grand chorus of 400 voices (local singers), a company from the Pennsylvania National Guard, Ransom Post, No 800, G. A. R., of St. Louis, and a battery of artillery, all under the direction of the composer. There were about 3,000 people present, including Commander-in-chief J. B. Adams and staff and others of note.

Governor McKinley, of Ohio, arrived here and has since been holding an informal, but none the less enthusiastic, levee, at the residence of C. L. Magee, whose guest he is.

All the national Grand Army of the Republic officers are here, and all the national and state department headquarters are open and crowded with visitors.

Mrs. Nettie E. Gunlock, the only candidate for the national presidency of the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, is here with the Illinois department.

Ex-Governor F. H. Pierpont, the war governor of West Virginia and governor of Old Virginia before the state was divided, has arrived in the city, and is the guest of his daughter, Mrs. W. H. Siviter, of Dithridge street. He will be the only war governor of the few surviving executives of the loyal states in attendance at the twenty-eighth Grand Army of the Republic encampment.

The parade of naval veterans took place yesterday. Over 1,000 men, under command of Rear Admiral J. B. Osborn, were in line. The old salts were cheered all along the line of march, which extended through the principal down town streets along Fifth avenue and Smithfield streets and over to Allegheny. In the parade were carried many historic relics of naval warfare, among them the torn and time stained banner which flew over the good old Kearsarge. The naval veterans went into their annual convention late in the afternoon, thirty-four associations being represented. Resolutions were presented asking congress to establish a college for the education of the daughters of soldiers and sailors.

Rear Admiral Osborn's annual report showed a very encouraging condition of affairs, notwithstanding the defalcation of the fleet paymaster last year. When the Indianapolis convention adjourned there was not a dollar in the treasury and the association was heavily in debt. During the past year all the old accounts have been settled, as well as all bills of the present administration. In closing, Rear Admiral Osborn says that having served four terms he would like to be relieved of the duties of his office. National Secretary Bostwick's report showed that charters had been issued to seven local associations during the year in the cities of Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Bath, Me.; Boston, Annapolis, Lowell and Rockford, Ill.

After the reading of reports and the presentation of a large number of resolutions, which were referred, F. B. Allen, of Hartford, Conn., was elected commander.

Canvassing has been going on briskly already in all directions in connection with G. A. R. politics. Of the four candidates for the office of commander-in-chief each has a pretty strong backing among the delegates to the encampment. Judge Long, of Michigan, has an enthusiastic following, but the friends of Colonel Lawler, of Illinois, claim to have almost all the northwestern states behind him, while the supporters of Colonel Walker, of Indiana, assert that they have promises enough to carry him through. The Texas aspirant, John D. Bigger, also has plenty of friends, who are confident of his ability to win.

Louisville and St. Paul are making a strong fight between them for the next encampment. The Louisville delegation, however, claims to have promises enough from the various departments to result in a majority of the national delegates voting in favor of that city. Kansas City is also pushing her claims for recognition.

The Trouble Over.

A prominent man in town exclaimed the other day: "My wife has been wearing out her life from the effects of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and Indigestion. Her case baffled the skill of our best physicians. After using three packages of Bacon's Celery King for the Nerves she is almost entirely well." Keep your blood in a healthy condition by the use of this great vegetable compound. Call at John J. Chambers, 21 West Main Street opp. Runyons grocery, sole agent, and get a trial package free. Large sizes 50c and 25c.

Honest.

In these days of adulteration and fraud, in all branches of business and pursuits, it is pleasing to know that there is one medicine prepared which is strictly pure. Such a medicine is Sulphur Bitters in curing scrofula; you can depend on them every time. W. B. Everts, A. M., Charleston S. C.

SOUTH CAROLINA TRAGEDIES.

An Old Grudge Raised a Serious Row at a Church.

WALHALLA, S. C., Sept. 11. — Wade Heaton, a young white man, was stabbed to the heart and killed by Frank Parks, a young negro, near Salem Baptist church. There was an old grudge between them and Heaton raised a row with Parks at the church and then followed him a considerable distance on the road home, kicking and cuffing him about. Finally Parks turned and plunged a knife into Heaton's breast. Near Westminster Bill White, colored, was waylaid and shot by some persons, supposed to be Andy Lester and Bill Roach, two negro men who have been on bad terms with him for some time. Forty shots were put in his back and it is thought he will die. Frank Threft cut John Quarles and Ira Quarles in a drunken row in Whetstone Creek. It is feared there is no chance for John to recover.

Fatal Shooting Affray in a Saloon.

ELWOOD, Ind., Sept. 11.—In a fight in Potter Palmer's saloon, Isaac Martin was fatally killed and Phil Hopple probably fatally wounded. A crowd of twenty entered the saloon and began wrecking it. James McDermott, the barkeeper, attempted to put them out and a general fight ensued in which McDermott was roughly handled. He ran behind the bar and they pelted him with billiard balls, cues, glasses and bottles, when he got his revolver and began firing. The first shot took effect in Isaac Martin's temple and he fell dead, while Hopple was also shot in the head.

Fatal Shooting Affray.

KANGLEY, Ill., Sept. 11.—City Marshal Donaldson was fatally shot and M. E. Tobias, clerk for the Star Coal company, seriously wounded by John Urich, a miner. Urichs' cow had been placed in the pound and Mrs. Urich attempted to batter the gates down and release the animal. The officer and Tobias interfered, and as they were leading the woman to the jail her husband emptied a revolver at them, two of the shots taking effect. Urich escaped and a posse of fifty men started in pursuit.

Skipped With an Heiress.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—William H. Jones, a waiter, is under arrest here charged with abducting pretty Angelina Mason, sole heiress to the Sunnyside estate, which includes the north side resort known as the Sunnyside. Jones was employed at the Sunnyside hotel and last August disappeared with the heiress. The pair was located in Montreal and later the girl and Jones, who had been married, returned to Chicago and his arrest followed. It is said that Jones has two wives living in this city.

President Bowman Found Guilty.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Sept. 11.—John M. Bowman, president of the defunct Muncy bank was found guilty on six counts, of making false entries with intent to deceive the United States bank examiner. He will ask for a new trial. The minimum sentence on each count is five years. Pela Green, the cashier, who was found guilty asked for a new trial.

Her Corset Saved Her Life.

RICHMOND, Ky., Sept. 11.—Just as the congregation was leaving the Mt. Pleasant Christian church William Sixsmith stepped up to the organist Mrs. Jones, and fired two shots at her from a pistol. Only one bullet struck her. Her corset stays saved her life and she was only badly frightened. Sixsmith escaped. No cause is known for the attempted murder.

Fell Forty Feet to Death.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Sept. 11.—John Reed, a carpenter, aged 24 years, of Snydertown, fell from the top of the Patterson breaker, a distance of forty feet, and crushed his head and broke his neck. Despite his terrible injuries, however, he was restored to consciousness and lived nearly two hours. He was married two months ago.

A Child Run Down at a Crossing.

SUNBURY, Pa., Sept. 11.—Clara Johnson, aged 4 years, was instantly killed by a Pennsylvania engine at Third and Market crossing here yesterday afternoon. She was going on an errand and walked on the track in front of the engine. The engine ran across her spine, cutting the body in twain.

A Challenge to Coxey.

MASSILLON, O., Sept. 11.—D. J. Smith, a Republican farmer of Columbia county and an unsuccessful candidate for the congressional nomination, has challenged J. S. Coxey to participate in a series of five debates. The discussion, he says, must take place in public halls, and not in a circus tent.

A Pleasure Yacht Capsized.

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 11.—The pleasure yacht Patrol, Captain Howell Frambes in crossing the inlet bar yesterday afternoon, capsized, throwing the captain and four passengers into the water. All were rescued by the yacht Comet, and the yacht sized boat was floated by the government life saving men.

A Binghamton Baby.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sept. 21, 1893.

Dr. Hand's Colic Cure brought a blessing to my house. My baby is eleven weeks old and had the colic since birth every day. Dr. Hand's Colic Cure gave him instant relief and I shall always recommend Dr. Hand's Remedies for Children to all my friends.—Mrs. A. H. Gaige, 198 Nestle avenue. THE INQUIRY RESUMED.

The Lexow Committee Again at Work in New York.

TRYING TO SHOW BRIBE TAKING.

Headquarters Detective Hanley Questioned About Certain Transactions in Watches and Methods of Recovering Stolen Goods from Pawnbrokers.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Investigation of the police department was resumed yesterday by the Lexow committee of the state senate. Mr. Goff was, as prior to the adjournment two months ago, the inquisitor-in-chief. He first stretched Detective Sergeant Charles A. Hanley upon the rack.

A handsome gold watch which Hanley carried served as a text for Mr. Goff's interrogations, which were directed toward showing that the police were upon too friendly terms with the pawnbrokers for the good of the public; that persons who had been robbed and whose property found its way to the pawnshops were obliged to pay the keepers of those places all the money advanced before they would be permitted to reclaim that which had been stolen, and that it was not an uncommon thing for a pawnbroker to sell officers valuable articles at ridiculously low prices.

The watch carried by Detective Hanley, for example, had been bought for $50, which, it was intimated, was but a fraction of its actual value. Mr. Goff also questioned Hanley as to his relations with one Jimmy McNally, known as "the green goods king," the interrogation implying that the thief taker had accepted gifts at the hands of a man whom he denominated a thief.

Detective Hanley was asked if he had ever received money from McNally, and made an unequivocal denial, which was followed by the question if he had not received from McNally two handsome banquet lamps. "I don't know anything about the lamps; my wife got them," was the detective's reply.

Mrs. Hanley was then placed upon the stand. She claimed that she bought the lamps for $20.

Alonzo Sloan, who admitted, after some hesitation, that he had been for eight years connected with McNally, the alleged king of the green goods men, was the next important witness. Sloan acknowledged that he had been confined in the Snake Hill penitentiary for a year for swindling a green goods victim in New Jersey. He explained that he worked with McNally because "the king" had money and he could borrow when broke.

Some letters addressed to "Dear Jim" were shown him. He acknowledged that they were sent him by McNally. One of them was read to the committee by Mr. Goff. In the letter Sloan complained that he was not well treated by McNally, although he had received twenty-four telegrams from "guys" in answer to green goods circulars he had sent out. He kept a pool room, open in different parts of the city and explained the methods adopted by friendly policemen to warn him of approaching trouble.

William Applegate, a former clerk employed by McNally, testified that the so called "king of the green goods men is now in Paris, accompanied by Miss Lulu Applegate, sister of the witness. Young Applegate was employed to fold circulars at the holding office, corner Elizabeth and Broome streets.

Joseph M. Rausch'er was placed on the stand. He denied having ever done any engraving for McNally. But the prosecution produced a damning letter that he sent McNally. He broke down and confessed that he had told a falsehood. Chairman Lexow said he would be compelled to call the attention of the grand jury to the perjury of Rauschbrier.

Young Applegate again returned the stand, and said that as confidential man for McNally he had paid money for protection to the different police captains and wardmen. Boxes and packages of "chinamies" were produced and attracted much attention.

WHICH SIDE IS TRUE

STORY OF KATE MARSDEN'S WORK AMONG SIBERIAN LEPERS.

She Has Been Spoken of as a Second Florence Nightingale Because of Her Work, but Now Grave Charges Are Made Against Her.

There are two sides to the story of Miss Kate Marsden, the personable English woman, no longer young, but not yet old, upon whom the mantle of Florence Nightingale has been declared to have fallen. Miss Marsden became famous because of her investigations of leprosy as it exists in Siberia. The story of those investigations, as told by herself, makes her out to be brave, self sacrificing, with plenty of nerve and of extraordinary endurance. It was in 1889 that she came to the front. She was then in Berlin, and she was out of money.

She had heard of a wonderful plant that grew in Siberia, which was a specific for leprosy and with which some Siberian lepers were curing themselves. She longed to go to Siberia and find this plant. At the same time she proposed to look into the state of the lepers themselves. She had heard that because of their poverty and ignorance but few were able to avail themselves of its potency, and that most of them suffered the tortures of slow starvation by reason of the isolation insisted upon by the communities in which they lived. She had a notion that it would be well to found a colony where all the lepers might be gathered and treated with the herb, and that she was the one to found such a colony.

The Empress Frederick, to whose attention Miss Marsden's plan was brought, was greatly interested and wrote letters to mother Victoria, the queen of England, and brother Albert Edward, prince of Wales. The Marsden record was looked up, and it was found that she had served as a Red Cross nurse in the Russo-Turkish war; that she had, after that contest, resided for some years in New Zealand, where she had won fame and good will by her work as a nurse, and that she had also tended the sick most faithfully in South Africa.

The royal minds were greatly prepossessed in Miss Marsden's favor by this, and the result was that in 1890, with letters in her pocket that introduced her to the czarina, she went to St. Petersburg, where she was furnished with every facility to do her work. The help extended included a letter from the highest imperial authorities and an escort of soldiers during the time she should journey in Siberia. Of her journeyings she gave most interesting accounts upon her return. She rode horseback much of the time, booted, trousered and astride, like a man. She suffered cold, hunger and fatigue. Her course often led through morass and pathless forests, and her road had sometimes to be cleared in advance of her progress by sturdy axmen.

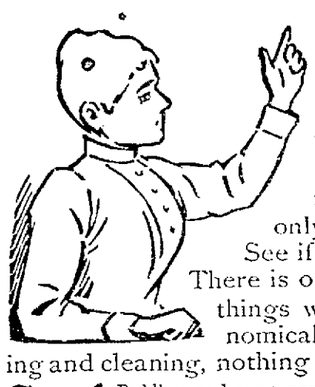
She found about 300 lepers, all told, and they were in frightful condition. They lived in huts separate from their fellows, they were insufficiently fed and clad, and their lot was inexpressibly deplorable. She did not find the healing plant, but she heard of it and believed thoroughly in its existence. Neither did she found the colony. It was necessary for her to rest before entering upon that part of the work. Besides the needful money must be raised.

So she returned to London, whence a little later she came to America. Here she declared that she proposed shortly to investigate the lepers of Kamchatka, who, she understood, were in even worse condition than those of Siberia. She made many friends in this country and then went back to London. This was in 1892, and a short time after her book, descriptive of her work among the Siberian lepers, was issued.

Now comes the other side of the story. Her book displeased in Russia, where it was averred that there were no lepers in Siberia—at least only a few—and they, it was said, were not suffering for want of attention, because they were cared for by the imperial government. Gross exaggeration of Siberian matters generally, it was declared, were to be found on every page of the volume. An investigation committee took the matter up then, and its report has lately been made public. It declares Kate Marsden to be a fraud. There are hints of an intrigue between her and a Russian noble, and it is alleged that she did not do half the great things she says she did.

She denies it all, says the present report contradicts directly an earlier one, and that she shall bring suit for libel against Rev. Mr. Francis, pastor of the British-American church at St. Petersburg, chairman of the committee, and M. Pobedonostzeff, procurator of the holy synod, who indorses the report.

That is the gist of the dark side of the story, but it should be added that queer rumors concerning Miss Marsden have also lately arrived in London from New Zealand. The reader is at liberty to form his own opinion.



P-e-a-r-l-i-n-e.

This is the way we spell it. It's necessary to mention it, because some women don't seem to know. We find so many who say they use Pearline, and then, upon examination, find that what they are using is only some imitation of it.
See if your package is marked as above. There is only one Pearline. It makes white things whiter—bright things brighter—economical and saves at every point. For washing and cleaning, nothing under any other name can equal it.
Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 414 JAMES PYLE, N. Y

"America's Greatest Men and Women."

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

MR. WILSON TALKS.

MY Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess,

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find none until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy and secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

AFTER GUBERNATORIAL HONORS.

Four Men, Nominated In Tennessee, South Carolina, Delaware and Texas.

Henry Clay Evans, the Republican nominee for governor of Tennessee, is a native of Pennsylvania. He was born in Juniata county and is 51 years of age. He served as a private in the Forty-first Wisconsin infantry during the war and subsequently located in Chattanooga, where he engaged in the manufacturing business. He was twice elected mayor of the city and was sent to the Fifty-first congress, where he made a reputation as a ready debater. He was defeated when he sought re-election and was first assistant postmaster general under the Harrison administration.

The reform convention delegates of South Carolina have also chosen an Evans to lead them in the gubernatorial fight. His full name is John Gary Evans, and he is only 21 years of age. He is the author of the famous dispensary laws that caused such excitement in the state not long ago and is a son of the late General N. G. Evans. He was born in Cokesbury, was educated at Union college, Schenectady, N. Y., became a full fledged lawyer in 1885 and has since practiced in Aiken when not busy with politics. He has been a member of the South Carolina house and senate.

Joshua Hopkins Marvil, the Republican candidate for governor of Delaware, is one of the successful business men of the state. He is the proprietor of a large basket, crate and box factory in Laurel, which has an output of 2,000,000 baskets a year, and, it is said, has amassed a fortune of $250,000 in the business in the past 20 years. He was born in Sussex county in 1825, and his early life was spent as farm boy, sailor and boat builder. He is a member of the Methodist church and has never sought office before.

Charles A. Culberson, the Democratic nominee for governor of Texas, is a native of Alabama and is about 40 years of age. His father is David B. Culberson, the veteran congressman from Texas. He is a graduate of the Virginia Military institute and of the law department of the University of Virginia and has been a practicing lawyer in Jefferson since 1877. He has been in politics since 1880 and has twice been elected attorney general of the state.

THE RAINMAKERS' CAR.

It Costs $100 a Day, Whether the Earth Gets a Drink or Not.

Rainmaking is generally regarded as a modern institution, but Plutarch, who lived over 1,800 years ago, wrote that "extraordinary rains pretty generally fall after great battles." Others have noted the fact since then and attributed it to the concussion produced by explosions of gunpowder, but gunpowder could not have caused the phenomenon in Plutarch's day, because the explosive was not used in battle, so far as known, until many years after his death.

In Kansas and Nebraska the explosive balloons which were used with varying success several years ago have been discarded in favor of a rainmaker's car containing an elaborate laboratory, from which gases are released. These being lighter than air ascend with great rapidity to 5,000 or 6,000 feet, where they intercept currents of moisture, turn cold and sink, and thus form a vacuum, into which are drawn the moisture laden currents. The Rock Island railway has three cars operating in Kansas and Nebraska, and the rainmakers' get $100 a day whether the thirsty earth gets a drink or not.

When the car reaches its scene of operations, it is sidetracked and made ready for business. On top of the car is a tank holding 800 gallons of water, and three pipes project through the roof. The gases are generated inside the car and shoot up into the air through the pipes. Each hour marks the release of about 4,500 cubic feet of gas, and in many instances rain has fallen soon after the gas was sent up. At other times the work has been done in vain for many days. In some cases the citizens of one place have paid for the work of the car only to have a high wind carry the gases over some other town, upon which the coveted rain falls. When this happens where two towns have been at war over the county seat and one gets the other's rain, the chagrin of the town that unwittingly buys its rival a shower can be better imagined than described. During the recent hot and dry periods the rainmakers' cars have not been particularly successful, but the people have not faltered in their faith and have paid large sums uncomplainingly.

IS LIFE WORTH LIVING?

Solomon Once Said It Was Not, But Afterwards Changed His Mind—Cheer for the Despondent.

The Rev. Dr. Talmage, who is now touring in Australia, considered this question of sufficient importance to make it the subject of a recent sermon. Happiness is not a question of bank account or material prosperity, but rather of health, and this can only be enjoyed where the digestive organs are performing their proper functions.

Were the question addressed to a chronic dyspeptic, a negative answer would probably be returned.

Dr. J. Millner Fothergill, of London, whose name is a household word in England, says of this dread yet prevalent disease, "More distressing than the actual pain is the sense of misery experienced by many, the mental discomfort, the sense of wretchedness, of utter unfitness for work, the mental attitude of gloom, distress and incapacity, the physical discomfort tend to cause the sufferer to have misgivings that the malady is something more than mere indigestion. A haunting fear that the brain is the seat of the disease, where there is headache, the heart, where there is palpitation or irregular action, tortures the unhappy sufferer. The remembrance of this impression hangs like a dark cloud over the intervals of comparative health. Not only does the brain seem exhausted, but the whole system appears languid and weak. Instead of the man being able for a twenty or thirty mile walk, one or two miles produce fatigue, and sometimes an intense languor is felt without any exertion at all." When he goes to his medical attendant to describe his case, he says "I take all sorts of strengthening things, and yet I feel so weak." If instead of using these words he were to say, "because I take all sorts of things I feel so weak," he would express a part at least of the truth.

Mal-products of digestion are positive depressent poisons. Strong food does not necessarily involve strength, rather the opposite when the digestion is impaired. A little, well digested, feeds the blood, and from it again the tissues, better than a large meal of which none, or very little indeed, is properly digested In this condition, the more a person eats, the worse he thrives, because he digests little or none, and unless he is restricted to proper meals, he virtually eats himself to death, and he dies of hunger—of actual starvation, in the midst of unlimited food and everlating eating. To eat and digest, then, is not one and the same thing.

Dr. Fothergill speaks of artificially digested starch in the following unmistakable terms.

As the cooking of starchy foods involves their partial digestion, we see that intuitively and without the light of science, man commenced the artificial digestion of starch when only a savage and long before the dawn of history. We at the present, are emerging out of the early darkness and stepping forward by morning light on the path to the artificial digestion of starch, by so doing, economizing the bodily energy which would otherwise be consumed in preparing such food for absorption.

Paskola is such a food, being a predigested starch combined with organic ferments, possessing the property of digesting other foods in the stomach, thus virtually resting the diseased digestive organs and yet insuring strength and nourishment to the body.

Paskola has passed beyond the experimental stage, and is now being employed with the greatest success and satisfaction by thousands of sufferers. Many the man and woman who would have answered the question "Is life worth living?" with an emphatic "No!" now comes forward to sound the praises of Paskola and tell how it has rescued them from a living death.

Mr. L. W. Crisp, agent of the Southern Railway Company, Fort Hill, S. C., writes as follows under date of July 20th, 1894:

"Just five years ago I quit the farm to take up my office work. I was in perfect health and for two years following continued to be robust and strong. At the expiration of that time which was three years ago, I began to be troubled with dyspepsia, but gave the matter little attention thinking I would come around all right, Instead, things went from bad to worse, and in the last six months I have suffered frightfully. It has been necessary to call a doctor a number of times, My appetite has been good all this while, while my digestive organs have been absolutely unable to digest any food. I have tried everything that has been recommended, without experiencing any benefit. Have used the medicine of some of the best physicians in this country. They would sometimes help me for three or four days, then I would be just as bad off as I was before consulting them.

"I have lost flesh until I did not look like the same person, only weighing 132 pounds, making a loss of thirty-three pounds in six months.

"I had begun to think that I had better look around for a coffin and a place to put it, when just four weeks ago I came across a little pamphlet describing Paskola. I read every word of it and was inspired with such confidence that it was decided to give it a trial. I began taking the product early in July, and by the time the first bottle was half gone, I ordered three more, as I found it was doing me good. I ceased to lose flesh, had no further headaches, nor did I vomit after eating as previously. In fact I did not feel as though I had anything the matter with me at all. I have now taken two and a-half bottles and am still using it, everybody having noticed that I am improving and my complexion being better than it has been for two years.

"Paskola has done me more good in the past twenty days than any medicine I have ever taken. In fact it is the only thing that has ever done me any good. I sleep well at night, do not dream as I did before using it and awake in the morning fully refreshed and ready for my work."

Such statements as these are incontrovertable.

If you are suffering, if an emaciated form and general lack of strength shows that you are not being properly nourished, send for a pamphlet on food and digestion, which will be mailed free upon application to The Pre-Digested Food Co., No. 30 Reade Street, New York City. Paskola is for sale by all druggists.

Canal Boats Laid Up—Duck Shooting—Boatmen Living on Fish—Other Items

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—Owing to the prolonged drouth the boats are all tied up; they have been stopped since last Friday. There are 128 loaded boats waiting for rain. We had a fine rain, which laid the dust and refreshed things around here, but we have not had enough to start boating yet.

—Duck shooting is one of the many amusements of this place since the law gave the privilege. L. H. Decker shot three at one shot, and Stanford Brown, of Wurtsboro, two at one shot.

—Fishing is quite good in the Kill. The boatmen are getting one-half of their living out of the Kill, and it is a good thing for them, as they are under quite a heavy expense while lying still, as they get nothing while they are tied up.

—The Misses Dorrance, of Monticello, were the guests of Miss Nellie Jansen, this week.

—Sheriff Beecher, of Monticello, was here, last week, summoning jurors for the Supreme Court.

—James Mowbray has the best potatoes around here.

School Not Commenced Yet—Bitten by a Horse—Personal Items.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—School has not yet commenced as they are repairing the school house. Jennie Reed, of Bushville, will teach another term.

—Quite a number from this vicinity attended Forepaugh's show at Port Jervis, Thursday.

—Mr. Wm. Cole, of Candor, Tioga county, an uncle of Mrs. L. Decker, and Jennie and John Buckbee, visited them, last week.

—Some farmers are now cutting corn, digging potatoes and making cider.

—Lizzie Buckbee was bitten on the hand by a horse, Tuesday afternoon, while petting the animal.

—Your correspondent was the recipient of some very nice peaches, one day last week. They were delicious.

A Chinese Transport Sunk—Chinese Troops in Northern Corea Cut Off from Supplies.

BY UNITED PRESS.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—A Shanghai dispatch says the Chinese transport Cheau, with 1,400 troops, has been wrecked at Chetum. Soldiers and crew were saved.

Three powerful Chinese warships have gone to the Gulf of Chi Li to join the northern squadron.

Another Shanghai dispatch states that the Chinese forces in the northern part of Corea are hemmed in by the Japanese and supplies cut off. The Chinese have been compelled to kill their horses for food.

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

The Democratic electors of the State of New York are requested to unite in sending three alternate delegates from each Assembly District to a State Convention, to be held at Saratoga Springs, on Tuesday, Sept 25th, 1894, at 12 o'clock noon, for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates to be voted for at the ensuing general election, and to transact such other business as may properly come before the convention

The Maine election, yesterday, resulted in an increased Republican majority. Many Democrats refused to vote, and others voted with the Populists, whose vote increased from 3,000 to 12,000. The Senate, which stood thirty Republicans to one Democrat, is solidly Republican, and in the House the Republicans have elected 110 of the 151 members, a gain of three.

The fight between the Platt and anti-Platt Republicans in Brooklyn is so bitter that all sorts of devices are resorted to by the leaders of the factions in order to get the better of each other. In the Nineteenth Ward ex-Senator Jake Worth, having been worsted by John Kissell, has discovered that Kissell violated the State law in regard to the conduct of primaries and proposes to have him indicted. The spasm of political virtue which struck Kings county, last fall, has evidently not spent its force when ex Senator Worth poses as a purist in politics.

About 150 employes in the government departments in Washington, who owe their appointments to Col. Breckinridge, have arranged to take their leaves of absence at this time and go to Kentucky to work and vote at the primaries for his renomination. They go by special train, to-morrow, and as each man is thought to be good for several votes their presence in the district will be of great help to Breckinridge. That he should think it necessary to call on his appointees in the government service for aid shows, however, to what sore straits he has been brought by the aggressive campaign which has been waged against him by the better element in the Democratic party in his district.

THE ELECTRIC ROAD.

The Asylum Line Completed to Bonnell Street—The Extension of the North End Line to Begin To-morrow.

The work of track laying on West Main street will be completed this evening as far as Bonnell street. The trolley wire will be stretched at once, and after the dirt car has hauled away the rubbish, cars will commence running to Bonnell street, which will probably be by to morrow night.

To-morrow morning men will be put to work extending the North End line. The route will be through the extension of Highland avenue (the Sands Station road) to the plot of lots recently laid out by D. R. Miller, near Sands station. When this work is completed, it is probable the Goshen line will be taken up.

PUBLIC VOICE.

That Johnson-Slate Hill Ball Game—Johnson's Innings This Week.

Fair Play, in his article in the ARGUS and MERCURY, trying to explain Slate Hill's defeat, could not have taken a smaller hole to crawl through, for this is Slate Hill's second defeat. The first game was played on their own grounds, and we let them choose their own umpire, and easily defeated them by a score of 15 to 10, Johnson playing but eight, while Slate Hill played nine innings. And when the second game was played the Slate Hills were courteous enough to want their choice of umpire, and when the Johnson club claimed that privilege there was general dissatisfaction among the opposing nine, as they knew that their only salvation for putting up a semblance of a game was to have a favorable umpire. This game at the close was 7 to 2 in favor of Johnson, Slate Hill again playing nine and Johnson eight innings, and from start to finish the Slate Hill boys could see that they were outclassed in every point of the game, and only for two favorable decisions for them, which were quite close, but which nearly everybody said was a foul ball, they would not have secured a single run.

It was noticed by all that Mr. Millspaugh gave them the benefit of every doubt in close decisions, and in regard to Fair Play's opinion of Messrs. Corwin and Beattie playing the best game seen in this section for years, I think that his opinion is not shared by many, as Callamore and Claffy outclassed them as much as their respective nines did.

Messrs. Corwin and Beattie are gentlemen and we are glad to meet them, but when Fair Play says that Corwin struck out fifteen or more men it is entirely false, as he struck out about nine men while Callamore, Fair Play says, with the aid of the umpire struck out eight or ten. Now this is where Fair Play is rattled again, and about as bad as he is when he plays ball, as Callamore struck out every man in their nine from one to three times with one exception, making over twenty men struck out by Callamore.

Fair Play says it is the general opinion (in which I think he exaggerates a little), that the Slate Hill club could wipe out that defeat if they had a fair show. Now it is rather late in the day to tell us that after playing on their own grounds and with their own umpire.

But enough of this. I will say that the game spoken of is the fourth one in which Fair Play has played against us, and been defeated every time. Fair Play is a very good fellow, but he is a much better doctor than he is a ball player.

In regard to the umpire I will say that he is our manager, and also that he is a gentleman, and it was conceded by all that he umpired the game in as fair and impartial a manner as any disinterested party could have done. A PLAYER.

IS IT A CASE OF ARSON?

MR AND MRS. DANIEL WEBSTER, OF MOUNT HOPE, CHARGED WITH A SERIOUS CRIME.

Their House and Barn Destroyed by Fire, Last Evening—Circumstances That Were Regarded as Suspicious and That Led to Their Arrest—The Accused Said to Have Had Eight Fires in Recent Years and Admit Having Had Three—Mr. Webster's Statement.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Webster, of the village of Mount Hope, are held in the custody of Constables Wickham Ashley and Josiah Brown, to answer to a charge of arson in the first degree preferred by several residents of that village.

Their dwelling house and barn were destroyed by fire about 6 o'clock, last evening, and the suspicious circumstances connected with the burning and the fact that the couple have been burned out on several previous occasions led their neighbors to make the serious charge above mentioned.

The Websters occupied the large two and one-half story house on the corner of the road from Mount Hope to Otisville, directly opposite the hotel kept by Mr. Stephen Kaufman. They purchased the property about two years ago from Mr. John W. Crawford, of New York, and, shortly afterwards, transferred the same to to Mrs. C. A. Kunklie, of New York

They ran the house as a summer boarding house and for the past two weeks have had as guests Mrs. Amelia Undt, of New York, and her three children, aged six years, four years and fourteen months and a nurse, all of whom, together with Mrs. Webster, were in the dwelling at the time of the fire.

Mr. Webster was absent from home when the fire occurred, having driven to this city in the afternoon. He was delayed on account of the heavy shower, and did not reach home until the fire was nearly out.

Mrs. Undt and the children had just finished eating supper, when Mrs. Webster ran into the room exclaiming that the barn was on fire. The house and barn were but about fifteen feet apart, and were connected by a wooden shed, which was used as a wash house. The flames had gained such headway that the inmates of the house had no time to think of saving personal effects, but were compelled to flee for their lives.

The neighbors turned out in full force, and the wells and the pumps in the vicinity were drained for water to quench the flames and save the surrounding property.

The hand pump from Otisville was called for, and the citizens of that village responded, and by the united efforts of many people the fire was confined to the Webster property, which was totally destroyed.

Mr. Webster's previous fire record caused his neighbors to do considerable thinking and talking, and Mrs. Undt, upon being questioned, stated that Mrs. Webster had acted queerly all the afternoon. She had made frequent trips to the barn through the covered passageway, and a short time before the fire was discovered had closed a door in the passageway and had told the guests not to go through there again, as the hinges of the door were broken and out of order.

She seemed to be laboring under some excitement, but nothing was thought of that until the fire broke out.

Mrs. Undt's story soon became noised about, and as a result a warrant for the arrest of the Websters was applied for, and issued by Justice Ketcham of the town of Mount Hope.

The complainants then sent for Herbert Gedney, Esq., to prosecute the case.

A preliminary hearing was held, this morning, but as the Websters were without counsel, the hearing was adjourned until 3 o'clock, this afternoon, and messengers were sent to this city to procure a lawyer in their behalf.

The people hope to produce sufficient evidence at the hearing to warrant Justice Ketcham in holding the Websters to await the action of the Grand Jury.

An ARGUS reporter, who visited the scene of the fire, this morning, had an interview with Mr. Webster. The latter apparently recognizes the gravity of the situation, but loudly asserts his innocence. He claims that he has no idea as to how the fire originated, but thinks it may have been caused by lightning, during the heavy thunder shower, or that the children may have been playing with matches in the barn.

He stated further that the idea of him or his wife setting fire to the place is absurd, as they had no personal interest in the insurance, if there was any on the house, and that his own personal effects, which he valued at $500, were uninsured.

Mr. Webster told the reporter that he also lost $125, which was sewed in the lining of a pair of trousers.

It is stated by his neighbors, and also by an insurance agent of this city, that last night's fire was the eighth fire which Mr. Webster has had in a few years. Mr. Webster denied this, saying that he had only had two previous fires.

None of the agents in this city carried any insurance on the burned property.

DOINGS OF THE FIREMEN.

Business Transacted by the Companies at Their Regular Meetings, Last Night.

The regular monthly meetings of the several fire companies were held in their respective truck houses, last evening. The following business was transacted:

EXCELSIOR HOOK AND LADDER CO., NO. 1.

Routine business was transacted Communications from several members of the Binghamton "hooks" were read, affording much amusement. The company at the close of the meeting smoked cigars, presented by Mr. Richard Knight, of Binghamton, a former member of Excelsior.

MONHAGEN HOSE CO. NO. 1.

Monhagen Hose Company discussed the proposed trip to Scranton, which occurs Monday, Sept, 24th. The company voted to take its truck on the trip. Mr. R. H. Dolson resigned as Representative. The vacancy will be filled at the next meeting. One application for membership was received. After the meeting a drill was held in the Assembly Rooms.

EAGLE HOSE CO. NO. 2.

The members of Eagle Hose Company transacted only routine business, One proposition for membership was received.

M'QUOID ENGINE CO., NO. 3.

McQuoid Engine Company transacted only routine business.

PHOENIX ENGINE CO.

Phoenix Engine Co. had more than the usual business to transact on account of the preparations for its visit to Newburgh.

Vice-President George E. Gillen presided in the absence of the president.

Calvin Crist was elected an active member.

Several committees were appointed to complete the arrangements for the Newburgh trip.

A number of sample badges were shown and a design adopted. It is one of the handsomest firemen's badges ever seen in this city.

The acceptances of the Citizens' Committee on last fall's parade, the Mayor and Common Council as guests of the company at Newburgh were read.

A committee consisting of the Foreman, First Assistant and Secretary was appointed to procure a banner for the lead pole to be used in the trip to Newburgh.

The company accepted an invitation of the chaplain to attend services at the Free Christian Church next Sunday evening.

ONTARIO HOSE CO., NO. 5.

Ontarios elected as an active member Harry Mulford.

It was voted to hold drills every Friday evening and to impose a fine of 50 cents for non-attendance. Second Assistant Frank Curran was appointed drill master.

WAALKILL ENGINE CO, NO. 6.

The Waalkills after the usual routine business devoted its time in perfecting arrangements for the trip to Passaic.

Messrs. Chas. Ogden, G. C. Conkling and Ira Smith were appointed a committee on badges.

Messrs. J. Hirst, John Gavin and W. H. Wollenhaupt were appointed a committee on music, and it was voted to procure out of town music.

It was also voted to take with the company to Passaic, the Juvenile Wallkills, an organization of twenty-five boys.

THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Proceedings of a Special Meeting—The Erie Ordered to Bridge Its Tracks at Cornelia Street—Voted to Make an Exchange of Lots to Open the New Street.

All the members of the Council were present at the meeting held, last night, to help the Traction Company complete a route for its Asylum line.

Messrs. A. V. Boak and Wesley Davey urged prompt action and a resolution, offered by Mr. Baldwin, ordering the Erie to build a bridge over its tracks, to connect Bonnell and Cornelia streets, within sixty days, under penalty of $20 a day as prescribed by law, was passed.

The Street Committee reported in favor of transferring one of the city lots to Mrs. Williamson in consideration of her deeding her lot for street purposes, on condition that citizens interested and the Traction Company grade the approaches to the proposed bridge over the Erie and pay $100. Report adopted.

Mr. Mance thought the Traction Company ought not to go through Bonnell street until it had a franchise. Other members though a franchise was not necessary, Bonnell street not having been accepted. A motion by Mr. Mance that no poles be set or ties or rails laid until a franchise was granted was lost, Messrs. Mance, Dorrance and Bowler voting aye, all others no.

Council adjourned.

A Birthday Party at Midway

To-day is the anniversary of the birth of Mrs H. Relyea and the event is being celebrated by Mrs Relyea and family and a number of friends at Midway Park.

To Continue Early Closing.

The boot and shoe dealers have agreed to close their places of business, from Sept. 17th to Dec. 15th, at 8 o'clock p. m., except Saturdays.

AT THE COUNTY SEAT.

INCIDENTS AND HAPPENINGS IN GOSHEN.

Death of Philip Samuels—King's Daughters' Tea—Personal Notes.

From our Regular Correspondent.

—Philip Samuels, one of Goshen's oldest, most successful and most respected merchants, died at 10:20 o'clock, this morning. He had been in poor health for some time, suffering from a complication of stomach and kidney troubles. A few weeks ago he went to the Catskills in company with Mr. S. Lipfeld, of Middletown, and returned apparently benefitted by the change, but he soon suffered a relapse and had to take to his bed. He grew steadily worse, and for several days has been hovering between life and death. Mr. Samuels came to Goshen many years ago and engaged in the clothing trade. By close attention to business, hard work and honorable dealhe amassed a large fortune. He was a loving husband and an unusually kind and indulgent father. He had a large circle of friends and acquaintances in all parts of the county, and was much thought of by all who knew him. He is survived by his widow and by five children, Segismund, Bertha, Harry, Theresa and Julia. Mr. Samuels was a member of Goshen Lodge, F. & A. M., and of Middletown Lodge, I. O. O. F. The interment will be in Newburgh.

—The work of the King's Daughters' Society in this village is nonsectarian, so all may be called on to assist them. They will hold an afternoon tea at the residence of Mrs. Theo. Mould, to-morrow afternoon, from 4 to 6 o'clock, and all are cordially invited to enjoy the social pastimes and the music that has been provided. Voluntary contributions will be received at the door, and the money so received will be used by the society during the coming winter in their work among the needy in our own town.

—John Romer, the good-natured clerk in E. Dikeman's store, will leave this week to take a more lucrative position in New York city.

—Will Rysdyck, of Paterson, spent Sunday in town.

—Miss Mary Champion will leave the latter part of the week to attend a young ladies seminary in Pennsylvania.

—Miss Jessie Little has returned home from an extended visit to friends in Boston, and New Haven and Bridgeport, Conn.

Suicide in Milford.

John L. Van Gordon, a well known resident of Milford, shot himself through the heart, Sunday afternoon. The deed was committed with a rifle. He went to his room, placed the muzzle of the gun over his heart, the butt on the floor and snapped the hammer with his foot.

Domestic troubles and excessive drinking are assigned as the cause. He leaves a wife and three children, from whom he had been separated for a month.

Ivanhoe Lodge's Oyster Bake.

The oyster bake of Ivanhoe Lodge, K. of H., to be held at Midway Park, to-morrow, will be a novelty to Middletowners, and doubtless it will be liberally patronized.

The committee desires that all who can will attend the noon bake to avoid the rush in the evening, when those will go who cannot be present at noon.

Another Mary Powell Excursion.

The managers of Thrall Hospital have arranged for an excursion via the O. and W. and Mary Powell to New York, on Wednesday, Sept, 19. The fare will be $1 for the round trip.

MY BROWN ROSE.

Oh, my Rose ain't white,
An my Rose ain't red,
An my Rose don't grow
On de vine on de shed.

But she lives in de cabin
Whar de roses twines,
An she rings out 'er clo'es
In de shade o' de vines.

An de red leaves fall,
An de white rose sheds
Tell dey kiver all de groun
Whar my brown Rose treads.

An de butterfly comes,
An de bumblebee, too,
And de hummin birds hum
All de long day throo.

And dey sip at de white,
An dey tas'e at de red,
An dey fly in an out
O' de vines round de shed.

While I comes along
An I get hers some buds,
An I mecks some remarks
About renching or suds.

But de birds an de bees
An de rest of us knows
Dat we all hangin roun
Des ter look at my Rose.

HOW SHE WAS CURED

Father Dounet was a vine dresser. Working throughout the year among the vines, he had acquired the wine color of an onion. He went to Revigny now and then to put by some money that he might have a good dowry for his daughter Rosetta, a pretty lass, blond as the harvest field and as fresh as a May morn.

Rosetta had entered her eighteenth year and was much sought after. She drew some lovers by the hope of finding in her a "good match." Others she attracted by her beauty and fascination. Time lost! Rosetta only laughed at her suitors and found much to ridicule in this one and that one.

She laughed besides for that best of reasons with a young girl—that her heart was no longer her own. At a country festival she had danced several waltzes with Paolo Laurient, the son of a rich dealer in Ligny. The brown hair, large dark eyes, regular profile and caressing voice of Paolo had produced upon Rosetta an ineffaceable impression. His gentle and affable manners contrasted especially with the roughness of the youths of Revigny. Having received a good education, he talked with marvelous facility, and Rosetta was not slow in listening to him.

On the evening of the festival this true daughter of Eve, having lost her family voluntarily in the crowd, returned to Revigny on Paolo's arm. They were at least two hours on the way, walking slowly and compelled from time to time to pause when the wind blew too strongly beneath the great poplars which lined the avenue. They arrived at the village, which was deserted, and under the field of azure studded with stars exchanged their first kiss.

Very frequently after this Rosetta had met Paolo. Then his father had sent him to Paris to study medicine, and the lovers, exchanging vows of mutual fealty, sadly separated, and this was why Rosetta laughed at the suitors who came in handsome Paolo's absence.

For the first months after his departure he wrote regularly to Rosetta. Then the letters became more rare, with intervals of a month. Gradually they became laconic billets, scribbled, no doubt, in haste at the corner of a table in a cafe and giving evidence of growing indifference. At last they ceased entirely. Paolo had forgotten her.

It was an old story. At first Paolo had refused to take part in the diversions of his fellow students, the balls and brewery meetings. Then they teased him and accused him of having left a love in the country. This made him angry; but, being fond of pleasure, he soon decided to take his part in the play.

"After all," he said to himself, "they have reason to sneer. Why quarrel with pleasure? Leave sadness to the graybeards and profit by the present."

"But Rosetta!" his conscience murmured.

"Bah!" he thought. "She will console herself. Let her go. Perhaps she has already forgotten me. 'Lovers' oaths are quickly broken,' says the old proverb, and why should ours prove an exception to the rule?"

But Rosetta was not to be consoled. On the contrary, she suffered terribly at this abandonment and many times turned her mournful eyes toward Paris.

Several years went by. Paolo had known how to divert himself and yet study. After having passed his examination with honor he wrote to his father for permission to establish himself in Paris. To this, however, Father Laurient could not consent. He desired his son to return immediately to Ligny and establish himself there.

"As for the repugnance you seem to manifest for your native country," he wrote, "that is not the point in question. The workshops of Ligny have made you a gentleman, and you belong to the people here. You owe a sacred debt to your country, and as sure as you are a gentleman this debt, my son, you will certainly pay."

"The deuce!" thought Paolo. "Father Laurient will be hard to convince. But I must make him yield. Besides, if I return there, I shall see Rosetta, whom, I must confess, I have treated basely. I hope she has not started a scandal to meet me at Ligny. But Father Laurient would have spoken of it if she had. I shall stay here."

Paolo's fears were groundless. Rosetta had resigned herself to the inevitable. She dared not desire now to be Paolo's wife. Would it not be a very astonishing thing if the little Rosetta Dounet should become the bride of Dr. Laurient? There would be laughter for 10 leagues about at such a wedding. So she resigned herself without murmuring, without bitterness, content to weep alone, to lament silently in a shattered dream, her castle of cards fallen to the earth.

Now became pale and languid. Her relatives sought in vain to discover the cause of the strange malady that lay so heavily upon her. To all their questions she said:

"It is nothing—only a little indisposition."

The Dounets, however, consulted the most celebrated physicians of the region. None of them could discover the cause of the trouble.

But some good country friend had been behind Paolo and Rosetta at the time when they made their pledge of love. Father Dounet was at last informed of their betrothal. It was to him like a flash of light. He knew now what ailed Rosetta. He knew, and he could bring the remedy.

At dawn he harnessed his mare, attached her to his old carriage and departed in the direction of Ligny.

* * * * * *

If you are not in Ligny in three days, beware of my anger. LAURENT.

Such was the telegram that Paolo received one morning. He knew his stern father well enough to understand that he must obey him. Evidently the old gentleman was in a rage, and it would be imprudent to trifle with him.

"On my faith, there is nothing but to resign myself," he murmured. "I must return to my country."

The next day he was in Ligny.

"At last you are here!" exclaimed Father Laurient upon his arrival. "But not of your own will. The gentlemen of the faculty may be remarkable for some things, but they seem to have little respect for paternal authority. But we will speak no more of that. Now that you are here you will allow me to present you as a future physician at Ligny, thus guaranteeing your ability."

"But, dad, I have my diploma."

"Our friends would laugh at that of at two diplomas. It is for me to assure them of your ability and for you to verify it. Well, let us learn what they think of you. You shall make with me your first round of visits."

A moment after father and son were seated side by side in a carriage which was being rapidly borne along by the vigorous horses attached to it.

Laurient smoked a cigar with an air of satisfaction. Paolo, pleased within his heart at seeing his country again, turned about to look it over.

Suddenly the carriage turned sharply into an avenue flanked by poplar trees—the avenue that Paolo had followed with Rosetta under the starlit sky. It was the road to Revigny. Yonder in the distance was to be perceived the village, with the pretty houses rising from the river's bank. At sight of it a hundred tender memories awoke in the heart of the young man, and Rosetta's charming face as he had seen it last came between him and the landscape.

The carriage turned into the drive, drew up before the fifth house, and Father Laurient, checking the horses, descended to the earth.

"Your first patient is here," he said simply.

Then he pushed the cottage door open and entered. Paolo followed him into a large room upon the lower floor. A cry burst from the young man. Upon an iron bedstead, curtained with lace, Rosetta lay in a half slumber. There was an indescribable expression of sadness upon her sweet face. Beside her sat her white haired parents.

Father Laurient advanced to the bed, laying his rough, toil worn hand upon the girl's forehead.

"Rosetta, my child, arouse yourself."

The girl trembled, passed her hand over her brow as if to banish some importunate dream, and then as her dim eyes opened was stupefied to see the good face and grey whiskers of Father Laurient and to hear the worthy man say:

"I have come, Rosetta, to give your parents hope. They have consulted several physicians who comprehend nothing of what ails you. I therefore have taken the liberty of sending to Paris for a doctor, a young man of whom much good is said and whom I guarantee"—

He was not able to say more just then—the words died in his throat—but, thrusting forward his son, he cried:

"Come, doctor, take her again—cure her!"

Rosetta lifted her azure eyes to the doctor, recognizing him instantly.

"You, Paolo! My Paolo! Is it you? And you have returned to me? Oh, if I could only live! You will stay near me? Oh, my Paolo, my delight! You are a doctor and will save me! In your care I shall be saved!"

The poor child was feverishly happy. Bright color showed upon her cheeks. An enchanting smile came to the trembling lips. In that moment no man who had loved her could resist her.

"Yes," said Paolo, covering her hand with kisses, "you shall be saved. I am the cause of your illness, and I will be your cure. Thank God I have arrived in time!"

* * * * * *

Six months afterward Paolo Laurient and Rosetta Dounet were united in marriage at Revigny. The operatives of Ligny gave a great ovation to the forge master's son and his bride, so fair under her long veil. Then Father Laurient said to the old Dounets, pointing to the happy young couple:

"You recollect, Dounet, the day you came to the office to speak of the sick girl, of your Rosetta? You remember I promised you I would accomplish all?"

"Yes," responded the vine dresser, "I recollect also the old proverb, 'The word of a blacksmith is worth the oath of a king.'"

"Exactly so," said Laurient, straightening himself.

Extending toward the young couple the large hand of an honest man, he repeated:

"Exactly so, 'The word of a blacksmith is worth the oath of a king.'"—From the Italian of Augusto Faure.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

UNFEELING WOMEN.

MANY WHO ARE SO CALLED ARE GROSSLY MISUNDERSTOOD.

Women Whom the Present Generation Does Not Appreciate Because It Does Not Understand Them—The Other Type of Woman Who Is Always Affable.

A witty and sympathetic man once said to me, "I would rather marry a woman who lacked feelings and had none than a woman who had feelings and lacked none." Of course the saying came more from his wit than his sympathy, but I could not help feeling that there were moments when I could agree with him, although I have known the value and the services of the woman with no feelings to be underestimated.

My daughters have a friend—a woman only a little past girlhood—whose company is more sought after and relished than that of almost any one I know. She has admirers by the score and acquaintances everywhere, and no wonder, for she is cultivated, always cheerful and will listen to and rally the poorest talker. She is asked to everything in the shape of a feast, for she is the amusement and relaxation of whoever may be about her. At the same time, whenever her praises are sounded, the eulogy winds up with the inevitable and disheartening tag, "After all, you know, she has no feelings."

And this is perfectly true. Quick and comprehending as is her smile and graceful as is her glance while one is talking to her, there is always the conviction that not a trace of real interest is involved. If she only had a heart, the girl would be an angel.

I like the old fashioned word. And when I have been alone with her I have often wanted to say, "My dear, do be an angel!" But she has no heart. If she were to marry a foreigner and go abroad to live, she would leave us all without a moment's regret. So her friends are vexed with her want of feeling and warm the world against her.

And this is what seems to me unjust.

Take this girl as she is. Whether it is her nature or not, she never refuses the challenge to be agreeable; whatever her own plans and likings are, she never betrays impatience when they are crossed. Her companion may be plain, awkward and tiresome, but her eye and her gay little joke are never dulled for that reason. In fact, she may be the incarnation of the light which shines, but does not warm, yet while she keeps a whole circle in good humor by her wit, as she does, it is a poor return to gird at her.

Again, and speaking now of a widely different type, I can call to mind older women, often only the survivors of a more rigid era—exact, severe, stern, unbending and ruling their households with a rod of iron. How little this generation understands them! How little merit it allows to the implicit faith in duty, the untiring devotion to work, the almost fanatic hatred of waste and self indulgence and the Spartan maxims of life in which they were brought up and which they still observe. What has become of our eyes that we cannot see the beauty of such lives? Why do we no longer recognize their value? These are not the women who have feelings, but look none. They are without feelings at all, according to the standards of our new, diversified and exacting society.

I hear young girls saying that their grandmothers or aunts, or what you please, don't understand them, and really I think that many older people than these schoolgirls make just the same absurd complaint. I can appeal with safety to every one. Who has not known one of these same stern women almost bring the dead to life by her powers of nursing, or confront single handed and maintain her family on a beggar's pittance, or save a falling household by simple economy and hard work? I shall be told that all these things are admitted, but that is just the point—they are not. If they were, the cry of "no feelings" would never be raised, out of very shame.

I know an old lady who has had the misfortune to live a long life and to see all her descendants grow up unable to "understand" her. She is of the old, unsparing sort, and they, artistic, original, clever, modern people, have no place for her either in their theories or their interests. With these her notions can scarcely be expected to agree either, yet the complaints come not from her, but from them. They are not complaints in words. They are complaints crystallized into entire disregard for the old school, which does not, as it cannot, wholly sympathize with them. It seems to take an outsider, like myself, to see what I do see—that without this erect, white haired, stern figure, who is apparently so separate in all her views and husbands from us, we would have to teach themselves the lesson which she communicates merely by her presence. Their household is would be drifting on without the strong axles, so to speak, which she put in almost unnoticed for each newly married couple, and the whole family, now held together in an unusual vigor, would soon fall apart and be dispersed.

I believe there must be many such cases. I have the deepest respect for these strong, unbending characters who do not conceal their utter intolerance of our self centered modern methods.—May Johnstone in Ladies' Home Journal.

Timber In Water.

Seasoned timber is but little liable to decay under the influence of a dry atmosphere and will resist decomposition for an indefinite period when kept totally submerged in water. The piles of old London bridge, driven 800 years before, were found to be in good condition when the new bridge was erected in 1859, and those which served as the foundation for Trajan's bridge over the Danube, A. D. 105, are said to be still visible at low stages of water.—Toronto Mail.

STATE OF NEW YORK,

Office of the Secretary of State,

ALBANY, AUGUST 4, 1894.

Pursuant to the provisions of section seven, chapter six hundred and eighty, Laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-two, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to article six of the Constitution of the State of New York will be submitted to the people of the said State, for the purpose of voting thereon at the next general election in this State, to be held on the sixth day of November, eighteen hundred and ninety-four.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Proposing amendment to article six of the Constitution of this State in relation to County Judges and Court of Sessions in the county of Kings.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly do enact as follows:

Whereas, At the last session of the Legislature, the following amendment was proposed in the Senate and Assembly, viz:

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That article six of the Constitution of this state be amended by adding thereto the following section:

"§ 32. There shall be in the county of Kings two county judges, each of whose term of office shall be six years. The county judge in office at the adoption of this amendment shall hold office until the expiration of the term for which he was elected. The additional county judge shall be elected at the general election held next after the adoption of this amendment, and his term of office shall begin on the first day of January thereafter. When the official term of any county judge of said county will expire by the effluxion of time or the disability of age, the successor of such judge shall be chosen at the preceding general election. Vacancies otherwise occuring in said offices shall be filled in the same manner as vacancies in the Supreme Court. The salary of said county judge shall be as now established by law for county judge in said county. Their powers and jurisdiction shall be co-ordinate and co-equal. One or more parts of the county court may be held in said county. The court of sessions in the county of Kings is continued with the powers and jurisdiction it now possesses, and with such additional powers and jurisdiction as may be conferred by the Legislature; it must be held by a county judge of the county, and may hold one or more parts."

And whereas, The said proposed amendment was agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses of the said Legislature, entered on the journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the Legislature to be chosen at the then next general election of senators.

And, whereas, Such election has taken place and said proposed amendment was duly published for three months previous to the time of making such choice, in pursuance of the provisions of article thirteen of the Constitution; therefore,

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Assembly do agree to the proposed amendment.

STATE OF NEW YORK,
IN SENATE, April 26, 1894.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE, } ss:

I have compared the preceding copy of concurrent resolution, proposing an amendment to article six of the Constitution with the original concurrent resolution on file in this office, and I do hereby certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom, and of the whole thereof. (Published pursuant to chapter six hundred and eighty, Laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-two, in two public newspapers in each county, in said State, representing respectively the two political parties polling the highest number of votes at the last general election, and in one additional newspaper in each county for every one hundred thousand people in such county, as shown by the last preceding State enumeration.)

Given under my hand and the seal of office of the Secretary of State, at the City of Albany, this fourth day of August, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

[L. S.]

JOHN PALMER, Secretary of State.

The following are the forms of ballots to be used in voting thereon:

FOR

the proposed amendment to article six of the Constitution relating to the election of additional justices of the Supreme Court.

AGAINST

the proposed amendment to article six of the Constitution relating to the election of additional justices of the Supreme Court.

JOHN PALMER, Secretary of State.

Interesting Advertisements in Orange County Papers of 1813 and 1821—Merchants Who Did Not Know the Value of Printers' Ink—Sloops Advertised as Stages—Slavery Days—An Odd Combination—Cheehunk Springs Glories—Teaching Grammar by Machinery.

I promised, yesterday, to write of the advertisements in the Orange County Gazette and Orange County Patriot, which seem to me by far the most interesting part of those old papers. Advertising was not very expensive in those days. The rates of both papers were the same,—a dollar a square for three insertions, and eighteen pence a square for each insertion thereafter, with a discount of twenty five per cent. if the advertisement was continued for a year. The merchants of three quarters of a century ago had evidently no faith in the value of printers' ink, for in the Gazette there is but one mercantile advertisement, that of William Elliott & Son, Goshen, who inform "gentlemen of the faculty" that they "will find it for their interest to call and examine" their stock of drugs and medicines. Eight years later merchants had, however, caught on, for the Patriot contains the advertisements of several stores. Joseph Vial & Co., of Chester, announce that they have for sale "plaister, ground and in the stone," also paints, oil, putty, dry goods, groceries and hardware, B. Woodward, of Mount Hope, advertises his willingness to take cider spirits and pork in exchange for boards, siding, shingles and fencing stuff, and M D. Burnet and I. N. Seymour announce the opening of a new store in the village of Newburgh, which they have stocked with "a fresh assortment of groceries and dry goods."

Competition must have been keen between the fulling and "dying" mills, of which there were many in Orange county, for both the Gazette and Patriot contain the announcements of a number of such mills, all of which are prepared to do work in the best manner, at short notice and at reasonable cost. The sloop lines plying between Newburgh, New Windsor and Cornwall and New York city were liberal advertisers, and set forth the speed, comfort and safety of their respective vessels in long announcements. Singularly enough the sloops are all advertised as "stages." Both papers contain a large number of legal advertisements—mortgage sales, sheriff's sales, notices in chancery, notices of foreign attachment, insolvent notices, etc. James Finch, jr., and Abraham Dunning, executors of Samuel Tooker, late of Minisink (grandfather of J H Tooker of Wawayanda, and S. S. Tooker, of this city), notify through the Gazette all indebted to the estate to settle at once, and invite all who have just demands against the estate to present them on "Tuesday, the 30th day of this inst." when they will "attend" to receive them.

The miscellaneous advertisements are particularly interesting. In the Gazette "a likely black girl, sixteen years of age, large of her age, and understands all kinds of work," is advertised for sale. Those who are in want of such a girl are told to "enquire of the printer." Stockholders of the Bank of Orange County are notified to pay an installment of two dollars a share on their stock on or before the third Monday of October, and another installment of three dollars a share on or before the third Monday of December. Some one who has evidently tired of paying installments, advertises "a few shares in the Orange County Bank for sale." Many farms in this county, in Senecacounty, "in the town of Warsink, Ulster county," and in New Jersey are advertised, which would seem to indicate that farming was not very profitable.

J. B. Knifin informs his friends and the public, through the Gazette, that he has opened a new tavern at Salisbury, and "likewise has established a circulating library and offers to the public either for sale or on loan a choice assortment of valuable books—also for sale stationery and medicine." A curious combination indeed to our way of thinking, who are not used to mixing whiskey, literature and medicine. The advertisement of John Campbell, who announces that he has taken possession of the old stand commonly known as the Campbell Tavern in Hackensack, N. J. has laid in a "stock of liquors from the York market" and "flatters himself" that he is prepared to accommodate the public "in a genteel manner," is of special interest, as showing that Hackensack must have been one of the favorite stopping places of Orange county farmers as they traveled in their own conveyances to and from New York city.

"Sore were the list of medicines in those days. [illegible] Vegetable Pulmonic Balsam is advertised in the Gazette and the [illegible] evidently took it in trade, for announces that the stuff is for [illegible] "by [illegible] sale. In the Patriot [illegible] "Anderson's [illegible] for "coughs and consumptions." These advertisements do not contain the "before and after" pictures now in vogue, but in all other respects read like patent medicine ads. of the present day, for there seems to have been as big a crop then as now of cheerful idiots ready to rush into print with disgusting details of physical ills of which they certify they were cured by "detergent" and drops.

Rags seem to have been in great demand in those far away days. In 1813 they were worth $6 a hundred cash, and in 1821 $5. Several parties advertise for them and announce that they have arranged with storekeepers to "take in" rags for them. The printer of the Gazette announces his willingness to "take in" rags for subscriptions. All the rag ads. announce that "woolens and weavers' gears will not be considered as rags," and Hector Craig, of the Blooming Grove paper mills, complains that persons who go about collecting rags, pick out the white ones, and cautions storekeepers taking in rags for him to see that all packages of rags contain a fair share of white ones.

James Gale, in the Patriot, sets forth at length the virtues of Cheechunk Spring waters, and announces that a handsome new building, "fitted with cold and warm baths, showering rooms, etc., etc.," has been erected at the spring. Persons desiring to visit the spring, "which has become a place of great resort for fashionable and genteel company, as well as for invalids," are informed that they can be accommodated at Mr. Gale's house, pleasantly situated on a commanding eminence between the Goshen and Minisink turnpike and the spring. Short-lived was the glory of Cheechunk Spring as a health and pleasure resort, for its popularity had begun to wane before the digging of the Cheechunk Canal cut off the vein of water, that bubbled up at the spring, and mingled its health-giving waters with those of the Wallkill.

One of the oddest advertisements is that of C. G. Ramsey's Mount Hope select school. Grateful for past favors, Mr. Ramsey will receive a few more boys, who can be boarded "in families of first class respectability, in the vicinity of regular public worship, for one dollar per week." The strong point of Mr. Ramsey's school was English grammar, and he laid special stress on the fact that he had "just obtained the patent right and the machine on which by proper demonstrations the principles of English grammar are made plain and easy." So firm was Mr. Ramsey's faith in his grammar teaching machine that he advertised by its use to cram as much grammar into a pupil's head in five weeks as could have been pounded into it in six or eight months in the old fashioned way. If he couldn't and didn't do as he advertised, there would be no charge. Teaching by machine seems very droll, but the results were probably as satisfactory as those obtained by machine teaching in this day and generation.

A WRECK AT NEWBURGH JUNCTION

A West Bound Train Crashes Into the Pick Up on the Cross Over Switch

Wrecks on the Erie road are of rare occurrence since the establishment of the excellent block system now in use, but even with the most perfect regulations accidents will happen occasionally.

A wreck of very considerable proportions occurred about midnight last night, at Newburgh Junction, which even block signals could not prevent.

The "pick up" train ran out of the Short Cut, and while on the cross over switch was run into by a west bound freight train drawn by engine 252.

The engine struck the pick up at an angle, and the cars of both trains were crushed together with such force that many of them were totally wrecked and others badly damaged.

Both tracks were blocked, but the wreckers were called out and cleared the tracks in time to allow the morning trains to pass.

Scrofula humors and all diseases caused or promoted by impure blood or low state of the system, are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Alone on the Prairie.

The day was in that transitory state when twilight lingers in the lap of day and darkness struggles for the ascendency. The sun hung in a great red ball of lurid flame betwixt heaven and earth, there was a feeling of profound quiet which seemed to settle on all things animate and inanimate. The birds, the insects, the very trees and sprouting plants were for the moment hushed as if in expectancy of some unforseen, some inexplicable something which seemed to pervade the very atmosphere. A bull frog gurgled softly as he fell back into the limpid water. Suddenly, over the brow of a distant hill, there appeared a solitary man, seated astride a great bay horse, he cast one long, sweeping glance around him, and then sent it [illegible] over the brow of the hill again. And that same night [illegible] hundred people were turned away [illegible] to gain admission to the Opera House where "She Couldn't Marry Three" was being played to [illegible] audience of the [illegible]

UP THE WIDLAND.

The New Lyon Brook Bridge—Delhi's New Postmaster — Indictments in Delaware County—Seriously Sick—Too Much Fish Protection—The Sidney Fair—Other Notes.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—The new Lyon Brook bridge is completed. Trains were running over the old bridge for several years before the road was completed on the eastern end, and while it was perfectly safe for the load it was built to carry, yet it must be born in mind that the O, and W. engines are considerably heavier than when the road was first built. There is not now throughout the length of the road a bridge that will not carry an entire train of locomotives.

—Robert McCormack, (better known as "Bob") has been appointed postmaster at Delhi. The appointment gives general satisfaction to the people of the town even if some of the Moguls are disappointed. The outgoing postmaster, Jonas M. Preston, has been a faithful, painstaking official.

—The Delaware county Grand Jury found an indictment against George W. McAdams for attempted murder of his neighbor, Lancaster, in July last. The would-be murderer laid in wait for the old man as he was on his way home from working in the field, and fired four shots at him from close range, one of which struck him in the leg. Both parties reside in the town of Colchester.

—Of course the Grand Jury indicted Beardsley who shot and killed his neighbor, Pomeroy, at Sidney Center. They couldn't have done otherwise, but there are ugly rumors afloat that, if true, show that Beardsley did not kill without streng provocation.

—Wm. B. Cochran, one of Roscoe's well known citizens is dangerously ill with intermitent fever. He has been a very sick man, and although showing signs of improvement at the time of writing is by no means out of danger.

—The Spring Brook Chemical Co. has settled for the trout it killed, about a month ago, by paying $50 for the damage done and $12 costs. This was the last and crowning act of the late Mr. Walley, who was decapitated immediately after without ceremony. There is not a shadow of a chance of Walley getting back on the force again, as there are too many there now for the good of the fish interests of the State. The State now has more than sixty game protectors in its employ, and a great many voters and taxpayers are enquiring "where they are at." Matters have reached that point where it would seem as if it was easier to earn a living that way than to chop wood.

—Silas Berry, brother of D. W. Berry, of your city, is making a gallant fight for the nomination for Sheriff of Chenango county.

—The Tri-County fair, held at Sidney, last week, struck fine weather, and in consequence the attendance was large. This society is only four years old, but it already has fine large buildings, and as fine a half mile track as can be found in the State. The display of horses, cattle and other farm stock was large, and went to show that there is a rich farming section behind it. The display of vegetables, no doubt, was greatly curtailed by the drouth. The grounds are about a mile below the village, and are easily reached by the D. & H. Railroad, which runs a special train during the fair every fifteen minutes.

—Richard, the only child of Dr. John A. Miller, died at Roscoe, Wednesday last. The child had been ailing for a long time. Drs. Lathrop, of Livingston Manor, and Mills, of your city, had been called in consultation, but their efforts proved in vain. The bereaved family have the heartfelt sympathy of their many friends in this, their hour of darkest trouble. The doctor is one of the coroners of Sullivan county.

—"Please, my son, will you inform me the way to the deppo?" said a city lady to an Up Midland small boy. "I can't," said the lad, "never heard that name before, and I don't believe there is such a place here." "Haven't got a deppo?" said the lady in astonishment; "where do the trains stop and start from then?" "From the depot," said the youth, "and if that's what yer after you will find it over yonder."

RUSTICUS.

Take it as you get it, in liquid or powder form, only see that you get Simmons Liver Regulator. It cures Sick headache, Biliousness and Constipation. You need not make a tea of it. A spoonful of the liquid, or a pinch of the powder, just before going to bed will insure refreshing sleep, and the next morning you feel as though you had a new lease on life. Sample package powder, 25 cents.

INSTRUCTION IN MUSIC

Commencing first week in Sept The study of voice development involves a far more important fact than correct singing, requiring a correct use of the lungs and throat, on which, in very many cases, one's health depends The practice of singing correctly is calculated to bring about the healthy action and development of muscles which other-wise would have lain dormant and the breathing exercises are of incalculable value to those inclined to pulmonary weakness Write me or call at Middletown Music store and have time assigned you for a trial lesson free. 15dtfw1t CHARLES H FULLER

Buy of the Maker!

SAVE ONE PROFIT!

In buying your clothing, you certainly want to save all you can and that you can do only with us, because sold by us from a little Knee Pants to the largest Suit or Overcoat.

We Manufacture Every Dollar's Worth OF CLOTHING

We buy all our cloths direct from the manufacturer, and, therefore, know exactly what kind of goods we sell. We give you better goods for less money than any other clothier can offer, as we save you the middle man's profit—the profit which every retail clothier must pay to the manufacturer of clothing from whom he buys his clothing. Every article of clothing that we offer for sale, we show you the same goods in the whole piece and you can readily see what goods you are buying. If you want an extra pair of Pants or Vest or any garment, you can always get it from us, as we keep sufficient cloth in stock of the same goods that we sell in suit, to accommodate our customers to replenish their clothing in this way,—be it in a Man's Suit, Boys' Suit or Child's Suit.

Buy you clothing from the maker, and save the middle-man's profit.
